We introduce a new kind of nonisospectral Lax pairs involving contact vector fields and using these Lax pairs construct a new large class of nonlinear partial differential systems in four independent variables which are integrable in the sense of soliton theory, thus addressing a longstanding problem of finding an effective systematic construction for such systems beyond a few previously known important yet isolated examples like the (anti)self-dual Yang–Mills equations.

REFERENCES