

DIFFUSION AND ANTI-DIFFUSION VS. KINETIC EQUATIONS

Henryk Leszczyński

University of Gdańsk, Gdańsk, Poland

Mirosław Lachowicz

Warsaw University, Warsaw, Poland

Elżbieta Puźniakowska-Gałuch

University of Gdańsk, Gdańsk, Poland

We study diffusion and anti-diffusion equations as limits of kinetic equations [2]. It is interesting that some numerical methods appear as very natural in this framework [1, 3]. Kinetic equations with swarming properties have many applications, e.g. biology, medicine, even in social sciences [1].

REFERENCE

- [1] M. Lachowicz, H. Leszczyński, K.A. Topolski, Self-organization with small range interactions: equilibria and creation of bipolarity, Appl. Math. Computation, 343, 156-166, (2019)
- [2] M. Lachowicz, D. Wrzosek, Nonlocal bilinear equations. Equilibria and diffusive limit, Mathematical Models and Methods in Applied Sciences, 11, 8, 1393–1409 (2001)
- [3] G. Dudziuk, M. Lachowicz, H. Leszczyński, Z. Szymańska, A simple model of collagen remodelling, DCDS-B, 24, 5, (2019)